

School Dists. Can Be Denied Aid From State

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett ruled today that the state can legally withhold aid money from local school districts which do not comply with a 1963 act allocating 60 per cent of any increase in local revenues to teacher salaries.

Bennett advised Jeff D. McGhee, superintendent of schools at Lepanto, that the act did not make it mandatory for school districts to comply, but the penalty clause was rather severe in that it called for forfeiture of all state aid to a district which does not meet requirements of the act.

Bennett also held that districts which have been transferring surpluses in their debt service funds to their operating funds must include this money in the base on which local revenues are calculated.

The law under discussion, Act 258 of 1963, excludes any revenue voted specifically for debt service, but Bennett said this exclusion would not cover debt service money which is being transferred to an operating account.

The act has caused some apprehension among school administrators and McGhee referred to it in his letter to Bennett as "one of the roughest pieces of legislation ever to pass in our legislature."

In another section of the letter, he called the legislation "corrupt," said he was confident "good dealers were responsible for its passage and that it would provide refunding of some school debt service plans at much higher rates."

Act 258 stipulates that 90 per cent of any increase in state aid money shall go for teacher salaries or retirement in addition to the 60 per cent of any new local money.

The act was pushed by the Fair Tax administration on grounds that some districts have used the steadily increasing state aid fund as a bonanza for the operating fund when the legislature intended that it should go to teachers.

Girl Scouts Roundup Is Successful

Girl Scouts and their families turned out in a real big way for the Family Round-Up held in the Coliseum at Fair Park, Saturday April 27th at 7:30 p.m.

The program opened with Brownie and Girl Scout troops in horse-shoe formation, repeating their promises. The Brownies sang the "Brownie Smile Song" and Girl Scouts song "Girl Scouts Together."

Mrs. Cleo Smith, Melvonne Neighborhood Chairman, introduced special guests including Mr. George Frazier, Conifer G.S. Council Finance Chairman, Mr. Bob Turner, finance committee member for Hope, Mr. Clifford Franks, Hope United Fund Chairman, and Pod Roger from the Hope Star. She then turned the program over to Gail Gilbert, Conifer Council District III Advisor, who is also Camp High Point Camp Director.

The entire group joined in singing "Sing, Sing, Together," and a film on Camp High Point was viewed. While Mrs. John B. Gardner, trainer for Melvonne, and Miss Gilbert informed parents of the program change effective in September of this year all troops, with their leaders, assembled to the Rodeo Arena for a campfire program planned by troop 75 assisted by Troop 117.

Caring torches to light the Commemorial fire were Barbara Thompson, Molly Tolleson, and Becky Boylss. A stanza from "Kneel When You Light a Fire" was given by Molly Tolleson.

Ninth Grade Girls who will become Senior Scouts in September taught the "Camp High Point" song, followed by Troop 117.

The handsome 67-year-old mother of seven, blue-eyed and gray-haired, was selected by the American Mothers Committee Inc.

Mrs. Engdahl and her husband John S. Engdahl, both natives of Nebraska, were present when the announcement was made. They have six sons, one daughter and 14 grandchildren.

The couple has been married 47 years.

Law Day Is Subject of Kiwanis Talk

Attorney James H. Pilkinton, speaking in observance of Law Day, told Hope Kiwanis club Tuesday that the American system of government was still the best ever devised by man.

He compared U.S. system with the governments of Russia, China and Cuba, and pointed out the many advantages and privileges enjoyed by Americans which he said too often were taken for granted.

He pointed to the court jury system in America and told how justice was meted out when all the facts and the truth came forth as the result of evidence and testimony.

He did take a slap at court procedure as shown on TV and the movies, and especially pointed to the Perry Mason show as an example.

Mr. Pilkinton concluded by recalling our four great freedoms handed down by the founding fathers, and the privilege of voting for candidates aspiring to elective office.

State Police Swarm Into Birmingham as Race Trouble Mounts

JFK Explores Authority Executive

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today that "every avenue of executive authority is being explored with reference to racial difficulties in Birmingham, Ala."

Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant press secretary, said there have been several meetings of the presidential staff and advisers directed at this exploration. He said the process still is going on but there were no meetings today.

There was no sign that any major decisions had been reached on a course of action. But President Kennedy was prepared to face questions on the Birmingham issue at a news conference later in the day.

Kennedy already has expressed the hope that citizens of both races in the Alabama city will work out a solution themselves.

Hatcher was asked whether any consideration is being given to federalizing the Alabama National Guard.

"I just don't know," he answered. "I can't answer that question."

At a late hour Tuesday night, Hatcher said, Kennedy received, second and a report from Burke Marshall, assistant attorney general in charge of the civil rights division, who is on the Birmingham scene.

Marshall telephoned Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who relayed the word to the President. Hatcher said he could not say whether the report was of a hopeful nature.

Meanwhile, Rep. George Andrews, D-Ala., called on the President and his brother, Atty. Gen. Kennedy, to use their influence to persuade "professional racial agitators" to leave Alabama.

"Please use your influence to persuade all outside professional racial agitators, such as Martin Luther King and his lieutenants, to leave Alabama. They are deliberately agitating racial disturbances and advocating violence," Andrews said in separate telegrams.

King is one of the Negro leaders who have been directing the parades of Negroes in Birmingham during the last week calling for the end of segregation there. The President and Atty. Gen. Kennedy are on Page Three

Seniority Is Promotion Basis

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Seniority is the basis for promotion in the Fort Smith Fire Department if the man seeking promotion makes a passing grade on a competitive Civil Service examination, the attorney general's office held today.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard Adkisson advised Paul L. Guilfrie, a Fort Smith attorney that cities with the commission form of government, such as Fort Smith, are exempted under act 205 of 1959, which sets up procedures under which efficiency, character and conduct can be considered as promotion criteria.

Adkisson said promotions at Fort Smith are governed by Act 138 of 1957, which says that length of service is the only promotion criterion if the senior man makes a passing grade.

Bees Swarm Auto, But Are Captured

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Frank Wills, a Little Rock attorney, went to a parking lot to pick up his car and found about 15,000 unwanted passengers.

A swarm of bees had followed their queen into his car Tuesday and set up housekeeping. Then Bob Sterling, a real estate supervisor drove up with a portable bee hive.

Sterling raises bees as a hobby and during the swarming season is frequently called to capture swarms with his portable hive. He picked up the queen and 400-500 other bees with his bare hands and put them in the hive. The others began flying out of the car to join her.

Wills left his car in the parking lot overnight to be sure all the bees had left even though Sterling assured him the bees would not harm him while they were full of honey and looking for a home.

Parking lot attendant Charles Roberts said he first saw the bees when he heard a terrible racket. "At first I thought they were flies, then I realized they were too big for flies. I didn't know what to do, then Mr. Sterling showed up."

Said Wills, "My wife told me I ought to thank Sterling for getting the bees out of my car. Shucks, I'm going to find out how much they're worth and bill him for them."

Negroes Feel If Birmingham Submits to Integration the Fight Will Be Nearly Won

EDITOR'S NOTE — Relman Morin has won two Pulitzer Prizes as an Associated Press reporter, one for reporting of the Little Rock, Ark., integration crisis. He has covered the civil rights campaign from the beginning—Little Rock, Clinton, Tenn., Oxford, Miss., and now Birmingham.

By RELMAN MORIN
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Little Rock was one school, Central High, and eight Negro children. Oxford was one Negro student, James H. Meredith, enrolling in the University of Mississippi.

Birmingham is a whole city, a bright, handsome community of nearly 350,000 in the heart of the Deep South—the biggest target, by far, of desegregationists in the anguished and continuing battle over civil rights.

This is what gives special meaning to the quiet words of a Negro clergyman: "If we break through here, we break through everywhere."

This is the core of the story in Birmingham today, the determined drive for a breakthrough. Negro leaders say it means, primarily, desegregation of downtown eating places, equal job opportunities, the hiring of qualified Negroes in downtown stores.

"The organization won't settle for less than 80 per cent desegregation downtown," said one.

He added, "We're not even talking about the schools now, just the stores and the lunchrooms." The conversation takes place in the corridor of the Baptist church at 10th Street and 6th Avenue, Rock.

Action Follows Rioting in Downtown

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Heavily armed state troopers swarmed into this racial trouble spot today, ready to aid Birmingham officers facing their seventh day of massive Negro demonstrations.

Gov. George Wallace, a militant segregationist, announced Tuesday he was ordering 250 riot-trained highway patrolmen to Birmingham.

State Public Safety Director Al Lingo said early today, however, that the number was being stepped up to 575 troopers, virtually the entire manpower of the state agency.

Lingo said the troopers were under direct orders of Wallace. They are equipped with tear gas grenades, riot guns, carbines and sub-machine guns, he said.

In the face of this development, integration leader the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. said: "This movement is getting bigger and bigger. There'll be no stopping until we move segregation from the city."

King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, spoke at a jammed mass meeting in a Negro church in the wake of a day during which thousands of Negroes infiltrated the downtown business district and milled about the streets in the heart of the city.

Fire hoses again were brought into play to disperse the crowds. Police appeared almost powerless at times to cope with the surging masses, but there were no serious incidents.

Authorities said at least 10 policemen were injured, none seriously. Most were struck by thrown rocks.

There were no confirmed reports of any Negroes being injured.

There were these other developments: —President Kennedy and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy kept in close touch with the situation. The President said he hoped that the racial problems could be solved by the people of Birmingham.

—Gov. Wallace, in a speech before the Alabama Legislature, threatened murder prosecutions if the Negro demonstrations result in violence and death. The governor said he would take whatever action necessary to preserve law and order—perhaps including calling out National Guard troops, although there was no official word on this.

—The White House reported that a Justice Department representative had succeeded in bringing Negro and white leaders together in Birmingham for their first meeting on the racial problem.

—Former baseball star Jackie Robinson said at New York that he plans to visit Birmingham within the next week or two to take part in the mass protest.

—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, called on NAACP branches throughout the country to conduct "peaceful sympathy picketing" in support of the Birmingham demonstrations.

Woman Injured in Auto Accident

At Walker and Hickory Streets at 6:25 a.m. today autos driven by James T. Hendricks and Willie Brandon Jr. collided with heavy damage to both vehicles. Annie Brandon suffered a cut on the head and was taken to a local hospital for treatment by an Oakcrest ambulance. City Policeman Clark investigated.

Some people's idea of roughing it is having to walk from the far side of the parking lot to the office.

STEPMOTHER WISHES SHE HAD BEEN MORE INSISTENT

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: When I met my husband he was a widower with one child, a little girl just four who stayed with her mother's sister.

After we married I planned taking her with us, having two young sisters of my own by a former marriage and loving all children. But Auntie, being childless, wanted to keep the little girl who already called her "Mama."

One of the few occasions the child came to stay with us, she gave evidence of being badly spoiled. I remarked as much to my husband. Auntie told him I wouldn't give "Baby" (they called her) the love and affection she needed so, six months after our marriage, he consented to the sister-in-law adopting "Baby."

They live in a neighboring town. We see them at least once a month and when we do I always feel sad about the situation and worry over what people may say or think of me for not insisting upon taking my little step-daughter into our home.

Did I do the right thing? I've since regretted it many times. Next Sunday I am having a birthday party for my mother-in-law. All my husband's brothers and sisters and their children including the sister-in-law and the adopted child, are coming. Under the circumstances, it makes me feel very nervous and uneasy to have this stepdaughter present. I wish I had convinced my husband of my desire to be a good mother to her. I know in some cases they advise against the real parents or parent, keeping in touch with the child they put up for adoption. Would this hold in our case. We all husband self children by my first marriage and the two I now have by this marriage visit the little girl. Should my in-laws keep including her in family get-togethers? What would you advise? —Stepmother-with-a-Conscience.

Dear Stepmother: The ramifications of in-law relationships are so complex that it is difficult to judge without full knowledge of those concerned. Maybe "Auntie" resented you, her dead sister's successor, and subtly, as only an in-law can, snubbed you.

Or it could have been that you saw in the little girl a rival through her mother, to your husband's affections. Whatever the cause, you would have scored an everlasting victory had you taken the child into your heart and home. But what's past is past. Now, the only thing to do is to begin the laborious process of plugging the leaks in the dike which, if not repaired, can eventually lose a rising tide of disapproval of both your husband and his family and, in the process, destroy your marriage.

Stop the cracks in the dike with the cement of loving kindness. Go out of your way to be friendly with "Auntie" and affectionate toward your little stepdaughter, and if there is any disciplining to be done, let Auntie do it. Take the child on outings with your children. Make her feel she belongs by frequently buying the same things for her that you do for your own children. Encourage your husband to bring her home for an occasional meal. You might even set aside a corner, shelf or closet in the home for her special toys. Include her in parties as well. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Stepchildren."

Dear Helen: My husband lolls in bars listening to other people's troubles but when I mention our own or try to talk sensibly about the children's school work, his stock remark is, "I don't want to hear about it." He is a good man, works steadily, shows affection for the children and me but will "rob Peter to pay Paul" month after month. He thinks nothing of it if the war or electricity is turned off (this is very selfish as we have a two-family house and others rely on us for their utilities).

Sometimes, while drunk, he cries that he has cancer. We both know this isn't true. Once he awoke the children and me in the middle of the night to say he wouldn't be

Lunch Counters
Serve Negroes

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—One lunch counter gave service to two Negroes Tuesday, without incident, but a cafeteria two blocks away turned two others down.

J. W. Harper, manager of the F. W. Woolworth store where the two Negroes were served, said he had acted on the recommendation of "a bi-racial committee of leading citizens" formed to solve desegregation problems in Pine Bluff.

The committee was formed after 49 Negroes were arrested last March during anti-segregation demonstrations at a hotel and movie theater.

Names of the members have not been revealed. Harper said "Woolworth and other here in Pine Bluff have agreed to abide by the decisions and recommendations of this committee." The others referred to were not identified by Harper.

The manager of the cafeteria where the two Negroes were refused service had no comment on the situation.

With us much longer — he was going crazy. We went to a marriage counselor (I insisted) and he was normal for a few weeks then comes the drinking and we are in the squirrel cage again.

I have considered leaving him but would not do so until the children are on their own. This won't be for several years. His mother has spoken to him about joining Alcoholics Anonymous but he insists he "only drinks to be sociable." How can we survive this turmoil? —Mrs. D.

Dear Mrs. D. I agree you that fundamentally your husband is a good man but also weak and afraid of facing facts. His reluctance to talk about the children's school probably stems from fear of not measuring up to the problems involved. He lets the bills drift because he knows there isn't enough money to pay them and keep up with the "boys" to. When the screams that he is going crazy or has cancer, he is subconsciously seeking a way out. Convince him that for his own good he should go to a psychiatric clinic in a reputable hospital. Talk it over with his mother since she seems to be genuinely concerned and between you two persuade him that he needs help badly.

Dear Helen: I started going with a man when my daughter was four months old. We've had our fights but always make up. The cause of our fights is his family. They are Catholic and I wasn't. Now, since we're planning to marry some day, I'm taking instruction in his church. My little girl calls him Daddy — he likes that. He lives at home, I in an apartment. The situation has remained status quo for four years. Don't you think it's about time he bought a wedding ring — Frustrated

Dear Frustrated: Be patient until you finish your Catholic instruction. Your friend's religion is important to him and, after all, that is not a fault in anyone. He must be genuinely fond of both you and your daughter or he would not have her call him Daddy — It's a small thing but indicative of a nice quality of character.

When you join the Catholic Church remember that you have acquired a new friend in the person of the priest from whom you took instruction. If still ringless ask his advice.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mississippi
Blames JFK
Ambitions

By JAMES SAGGUS

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Legislative investigators today linked the University of Mississippi desegregation riots with Kennedy political ambitions and blamed the violence on federal planning errors and tactical blunders.

The General Legislative Investigating Committee, in its formal report to Gov. Ross Barnett and the Mississippi Legislature on the Oxford crisis, termed the riots last Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 a "tragic chain of events and errors."

After linking the Oxford situation with national politics, the committee asserted:

"That marshals were 'displayed' to attract a crowd of students; That the President illegally took control of the Mississippi National Guard, the only means the governor had of controlling crowds;

And that the marshals turned a student demonstration into a bloody riot by firing into the faces of the students as state highway patrolmen were moving them back.

If the President had exercised care in the responsibility he assumed, the report said, "The tragic events would not have occurred."

"One fact that stands out above all others," the committee said, "is that so long as the governor of the State of Mississippi was permitted to be responsible for the enforcement of law and maintenance of peace, there was no violence or injury of any kind."

The committee, which took more than 2,000 pages of sworn testimony from 90 witnesses, said the tragedy cost two lives, many injuries and millions of dollars damage needlessly. The rioting followed enrollment of James H. Meredith, a Negro, in the university last fall.

JFK Explores

Robert F. Kennedy, his brother, worked on a late standby basis at the White House Tuesday night, awaiting reports from Justice Department officials in Birmingham. Headed by Burke Marshall, assistant attorney general in charge of the department's Civil Rights Division, these officials sought to promote a solution to the Birmingham problem through face-to-face discussions by local white and Negro leaders.

Even as state patrolmen arrived in Birmingham Tuesday to help control mass Negro demonstrations against segregation in the city, the White House reported that Marshall had succeeded in bringing leaders of both races together for their first meeting.

The Justice Department remained silent on what progress, if any, was made at the session. But Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant White House news secretary, told reporters: "The President continues to hope that this situation can be resolved by the people of Birmingham themselves and this, of course, would be the most ideal solution."

Government officials refused to discuss any possible government action in the event of failure of local leaders to achieve peaceful settlement of the dispute.

The firm has obtained an Area Redevelopment Loan of $311,500 to help construct the plant. A three-mill tax accompanied the bond issue, but only one mill would be levied unless the company defaults on repayment of the money.

THE REASON

FOR THIS DRASTIC ACTION:

Our fiscal year ends in a few short weeks. We have just completed one of the most successful years in our history. Doing such a large volume of business, naturally we have accumulated some odds and ends and floor samples.

We feel it is good business to clean house periodically . . . dump odds and ends and floor samples regardless of loss. Also, we feel it is good business to reduce inventory at this time to simplify our taking inventory. During recent months, we also have made several terrific "Special Purchases" . . . in fact, WE WERE CARRIED AWAY WITH OUR BUYING & although all were sensational bargains, we have far too much stock for this time of the year. So the orders were given . . . rip, cut and slash prices right and left on EVERYTHING. It's our loss, but we don't mind if we get the job done. PLAN NOW TO ATTEND THIS GREAT SALE THURS. 9 A.M.

Ratification of Poll Tax Ban Is Slim

WASHINGTON (AP)—Only four state legislatures that have not acted on the proposed anti-poll tax amendment to the constitution are in session, and ratification of the measure is needed by five states.

This leaves only a remote possibility that the measure will be ratified this year, Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., chief sponsor of the bill, said Tuesday.

That possibility lies in the chance that Arizona, whose regular legislative session begins in January, will call a special session.

The legislatures of 33 states have voted for ratification thus far, leaving five needed to make up the 38, or three-fourths, of the 50 states that must approve the measure.

The only legislatures still in session that have not acted on the measure are Missouri, New Hampshire, Maine, North Carolina and Texas. The Arkansas legislature didn't act on the amendment during the past session.

Only five states, Arkansas among them, require voters to pay a poll tax. The proposed amendment would make it unconstitutional to require the payment of a poll tax or any other tax in order to vote in federal elections.

Freehan Helps in Tiger Win Over Yankees

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's just possible that Bill Freehan will make Gus Triandos the Wally Pipp of the Detroit Tigers.

Freehan, a $100,000-honus catcher, continued to give every indication that he's here to stay when he slammed a two-run homer, a triple and a double as Detroit whipped New York 6-2 Tuesday night and dropped the Yankees out of first place in the American League.

He also gave rise to the suspicion that Triandos might find himself without a job in a situation somewhat parallel to Pipp's. Pipp, it will be remembered, stepped out of the Yankee line-up one day with a headache and a gun named Lou Gehrig stepped in.

Gehrig played 2,130 consecutive games.

Freehan was shoved into the Tiger line-up when first baseman Norm Cash was injured. When Cash returned to action against the Yankees, Detroit Manager Boh Scheffing figured he had to have Freehan's hot bat somewhere.

So Triandos relinquished his catcher's equipment.

Freehan, a 21-year-old right-handed swinger signed off the University of Michigan campus, started his spree with two homers and a double against Baltimore Sunday and followed with a 2-for-3 performance Monday night against the Yankees.

He now has nine hits in his last 10 at-bats, has reached base 12 times in his last 13 appearances and has lifted his batting average to .500.

While Freehan was shelling Yankee pitching, former Yankee Bob Turley pitched a masterpiece for the Los Angeles Angels, allowing only three hits, striking out nine and walking none in a 2-0 decision over Minnesota.

Borton moved into first place as Earl Wilson set Baltimore down on three hits 5-1, the Chicago White Sox edged Kansas City 2-1 and Cleveland belted Washington 7-3 in 11 innings in a wild game in which a pitcher wound up playing the outfield for the Senators.

In the National League, San Francisco took over the top spot by beating Milwaukee 5-2, the Los Angeles Dodgers walloped St. Louis 11-1, Chicago's Cubs edged Pittsburgh 5-4, Houston got by Cincinnati 3-2 and the New York Mets downed Philadelphia 3-1.

Turley, now 1-3, retired 12 Twins in order at one point, but just managed to beat Jim Perry, Perry, acquired from Cleveland last Thursday in a trade for Jack Kralick, also permitted only three hits. The Angels, however, needed only one to score their runs in the first inning. Leon Wagner's single drove in one run and Billy Moran came home with the other when outfielder Bob Allison failed to throw home on George Thomas' short fly.

The only Baltimore run off Wilson came in the seventh on a single by Jim Gentile, a walk and Boog Powell's double after the Red Sox had moved in front 5-0 in the top half of the inning on Lu Clinton's two-run homer. Orioles starter Robin Roberts lost his fourth in his sixth try for victory No. 1.

John Buzhardt pitched and batted the White Sox to their victory over the A's, dropping Kansas City out of a tie for first place.

Buzhardt drove in the deciding run with a seventh-inning single and allowed only five hits and a run before Hoyt Wilhelm came on in the ninth to preserve the victory.

Johnny Romano's pinch-hit double with the bases-loaded and Al Luplow's two-run single were the key blows as the Indians came up with four runs in the 11th. The Senators, who had Jim Piersall, Jim King, Chuck Cottier and coach George Case ejected during the game and used various other players in utility roles, wound up with pitcher Bennie Daniels playing the outfield.

Residents said lights in the city blinked off briefly, but there was no full loss of power.

Company officials weren't available for an estimate of damage. Witnesses said the transformer exploded "in a ball of flame and smoke." There were reports of calls to Stuttgart police about "flying saucers" after a circle of smoke hung in the air over the station.

Residents said lights in the city blinked off briefly, but there was no full loss of power.

Chapter XXIII

Irony edged Father Moran's voice: "And then — then by sheer chance I had a business reason to confer with Mr. Shawcroft, the head of the publishing firm where your mother worked. It wasn't unnatural that I should mention her to him. I learned she was no longer with the firm." He sighed.

"I think our Frances has found an easier way to live," he told me. "An apartment on the West Side, no visible means of support."

"I was instantly self-righteous. I was instantly a judge. I went to see your mother. I complained to her that she should have told us of the change in her status."

"You have a new job?" I asked her, knowing from the worldly Mr. Shawcroft that she did not.

"Yes," she said.

"I must have the name of your employer."

"I cannot give it to you," she said. "My work is confidential. I'm not at liberty to discuss it."

"Then there's not much use in discussing this further, Mrs. Terrill," I said. "You had better make other arrangements for Dawn."

"And then—" she figuratively went down on her knees and pleaded with me to keep you."

"Well, of course I had Christian charity. I am a priest. We are brimming over with Christian charity," I thought. "You could stay, Dawn. I told her, on condition you never came to that apartment. You could stay with us through the time of your schooling, I told her. But you must never, not once, step across into her world."

No one behind the screen door moved a muscle. Then, at last, Dawn spoke.

"I — I want to see Frances," she said.

I heard Nichols' breath hiss out between his teeth. But his voice was completely relaxed.

"Sure thing, I'll bring her to you, Miss Terrill."

"Alone!" Dawn said. "I want to see her alone. No cavedropping Nichols."

"Your party," Nichols said cheerfully. We moved quietly, crowding, through the door into the living room. Nichols, his face dripping sweat, took Frances by the arm.

"She's asking for you, Mrs. Terrill."

Frances murmured something I couldn't hear.

"This may be it, Mrs. Terrill," Nichols said. "She's gotten a pretty big load of truth about you. But it's a two-way street in that

Red Sox had moved in front 5-0 in the top half of the inning on Lu Clinton's two-run homer. Orioles starter Robin Roberts lost his fourth in his sixth try for victory No. 1.

John Buzhardt pitched and batted the White Sox to their victory over the A's, dropping Kansas City out of a tie for first place.

Travs Again Beaten by Indianapolis

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Indianapolis squelched an Arkansas rally in the seventh inning and gained a 4-1 International Baseball League victory Tuesday night.

In other games Atlanta downed Columbus 13-4, Buffalo whipped Jacksonville 9-4, Richmond nicked Rochester 8-6 and Toronto squeezed by Syracuse 3-2.

The Travelers had the game tied 1-1, and was in scoring position in the seventh, but Taylor Phillips fanned Arkansas' Richie Allen with two men on base. Glen Rosenbaum took over and struck out Midkey Harrington in the same inning, with the bases loaded.

Losing pitcher Marcelino Lopez walked Jim Koranda in the eighth, then allowed Jim Napier a triple. Napier came in on hope.

In the ninth Don Buford singled to left, stole to second, made third on a sacrifice and stole home.

Arkansas' only run came in the first inning when John Upham walked, Norm Gigon singled and Upham came home on a fielder's choice.

Indianapolis didn't score until the sixth, on a walk to Ramon Conde, a single by Koranda and a passed ball.

The Phillies now have a 3-1 record.

The loss knocked the Travelers from the lead in the Southern division of the International League.

Atlanta took over that spot with a 13-8 record. Arkansas is second with 12-1, one game behind.

Giants Turning Into Terrors While on Road

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don't invite the San Francisco Giants over for a friendly baseball game. They're liable to wreck the place.

The Giants, who were everybody's friend on the road last year, have turned into traveling terrors this season. As a result, they are in first place in the National League today, a game over Pittsburgh.

The Giants did their ungracious visitor act again Tuesday night at Milwaukee, as Juan Marichal pitched a four-hitter and Felipe Alou, Ed Bailey and Jose Pagan spanked homers in a 5-1 victory.

That gave the Giants an 11-2 mark on the road this year. Last season they were only 42-41 in their traveling suits, and they had to win the pennant in the playoff at Los Angeles to go over .500.

Oddly enough, the defending champions, who were in hospitable at an amazing 61-21 clip in San Francisco last season, are only 6-9 in the Candlestick Park wind tunnel this season.

The Pirates fell back at Chicago, where the Cubs trimmed them 5-4. The St. Louis Cards also lost ground, as the Dodgers trampled them 11-1. Both are a game back of the Giants, with the Pirates percentage points ahead of the Cards.

Houston whipped Cincinnati 3-2 and the New York Mets measured Philadelphia 3-1.

In the American League, the Boston Red Sox moved into first place by dumping Baltimore 5-1, while the Chicago White Sox were edging the Kansas City A's 2-1 and the Detroit Tigers were taming the New York Yankees 6-2. Los Angeles beat Minnesota 2-0, on a three-hitter by Bob Turley, and Cleveland took Washington 7-3 in 11 innings.

The rambaging Cubs racked up their fourth straight and seventh in the last eight against the Pirates, in the only daylight game. Larry Jackson got the victory, his fourth, and Ernie Banks hit his sixth homer for the Cubs. Two Pirates' errors helped the Cubs to two runs in the seventh and Merritt Ranew doubled home

Sandy Koufax came back after a two-week absence and pitched eight sparkling innings for the Dodgers. Koufax had not worked since he suffered a muscle spasm on April 23, but the left-hander allowed only five hits, struck out four and walked just one for his third victory. Another Dodger returnee, Tommy Davis who missed most of the first three weeks of the season, hit his first homer of the year. Ray Washburn was the loser, after winning five straight for the Cards.

Bob Purkey, ailing with a sore shoulder, made his first start of the year for the Cincinnati Reds and went 5 1-3 good innings—the only good news of the night for the Reds. Bill Henry, and then Joey Jay tried to protect a 2-1 lead, but Jay was tagged for run-scoring singles by Bob Lillis and Rusty Staub in the eighth inning for the loss.

Jay, a 21-14 pitcher last year, now is 0-6 for Cincinnati.

The Mets jumped Art Mahaffey for three runs in the first inning, all on homers, and little Al Jackson made them stand up for his third victory. Charlie Neal got an inside-the-park homer when Philie center fielder Don Demeter fell down trying to field his line drive, and Frank Thomas hit a two-run homer. Bobby Wine ruined Jackson's shutout bid with a homer in the ninth.
